

S.C. Leader Solon Low Deplores Party Omission

By JIM TANNIAN

Ottawa — Social Credit Leader Solon Low today told The Carleton that a story in an Ottawa newspaper which quoted him as criticizing Carleton College for ignoring his party at Thursday's session of the Model Parliament arose in "a peculiar manner".

He also offered to apologize if the story, in which he was quoted as calling those responsible for the holding of the Model Parliament "derelict in their duty to the student body", had done the college any harm.

Called by Newsman

Mr. Low said he was called Friday morning by a newspaperman who advised him a Model Parliament had taken place at Carleton College and that guest speakers from the Liberal, Progressive Conservative, CCF and Labor Progressive parties had been invited to take part.

The reporter then asked Mr. Low if his party had been invited to send a representative; when he was told "no" the newsman asked Mr. Low what he thought of the matter.

From the reporter's phraseology the Social Credit chief said he was led to believe college authorities had issued the invitations to speakers from the other four parties so he told the newspaperman if his party "had been deliberately bi-passed" he thought it was "a reprehensible thing." But, he added, he has since been informed by Prof. Frank MacKinnon of the political science department that there was no deliberate omission of a Social Credit speaker at the session.

Mr. MacKinnon had pointed out to him that members of the student body formed the campus political clubs on their own initiative and the leaders of these clubs who organized the Model Parliament had decided among themselves that each group should invite a guest speaker to the session.

NO S.C. CLUB

And since there has as yet been no Social Credit club formed at the college, Professor MacKinnon told him, there was nobody to invite a speaker from his party. However, Mr. MacKinnon believed a group might be formed here and the Social Credit party would be invited to send representatives to future sessions of the Model Parliament.

Mr. Low told The Carleton he "naturally accepted this explanation." But, he added, he isn't entirely satisfied; "it doesn't explain the whole thing."

"When a club is composed of a one man body it looks peculiar that they should be allowed to invite a speaker to participate while a party such as ours, which is the fourth largest in the country, is ignored."

ONE L.P.P.-er

He was referring to the fact that Carleton College's one man Labor Progressive Party had brought Mark Frank, party organizer for Eastern Ontario, to air that group's views at the session.

(Patrick Ashby, Social Credit MP for Edmonton East, was quoted in a later edition of the same Ottawa paper as saying of the incident that Social Crediters were often not invited to gatherings where there were Communist elements because Social Credit is diametrically opposed to Communism).

Since his party has "very definite views on most of the major national issues," Mr. Low said they would like to have an opportunity to air them along with those of other groups at future sessions of the student parliament.

"Therefore, since the only way to have speakers from his party invited to participate is to have the invitation issued by its followers among the students, Mr. Low said he will attempt to contact young men and women at the college who hold Social Credit views and have them organize a group."

U. of M. Victorious

The Cardinal Villeneuve Trophy for debating in the universities of Montreal, Laval and Ottawa has been won by the University of Montreal, it was learned recently. The two teams from Laval University, in Quebec City, had first lost to the Ottawa University representatives, who in turn, were defeated by the Montreal students in the eliminations. Laval University had won the trophy last year.

The University of Montreal team was formed of Dr. Gilles Cousineau and Dr. Alphonse Paquet, while Ottawa U. representatives were Maurice Dostaler and Louis Desrochers.

Death of Dr. Trueman Ends Active Career

Sackville — (CUP) — Dr. George Johnstone Trueman, President emeritus of Mount Allison University and Mayor of Sackville, N.B., died early this week. He suffered a stroke in the evening of February 11, as he entered the assembly hall of Sackville United Church after officiating at the crowning of the High School Queen of Sports. He remained in a coma until death.

Active Career

Dr. Trueman, during the course of his life led a varied and full career. As a member of the Sackville United Church and Rotary, he showed himself to be an outstanding Christian. In the field of Canadian education he was one of the leading promoters, and was recognized throughout the U.S.A. for his work.

Dr. Trueman was born 77 years ago, at Point de Bute, New Brunswick. He received his education at the rural school of his own village, the Provincial Normal School, Mount Allison University, University of Berlin, University of Heidelberg, and Columbia University. He received his B.A. and M.A. from Mount Allison in 1902 and 1904 respectively, and his Ph.D. from Columbia in 1918. In 1938 Acadia University conferred upon him a DCL degree. A doctor of Laws degree was received from the same university in 1942.

Age did not prevent Dr. Trueman from leading a very active life. Last December, when 77 years old, he donned skates at the opening of the Allison Gardens and joined the crowds on the rink. He engaged in civic politics and wrote many noteworthy educational articles. At the time of his death he was in the process of writing a history of Mount Allison.

O'Neill Speaks At Hillel Today

Today at 1 p.m. Dr. John J. O'Neill, Dean of the Faculty of Engineering and Director of the Department of Geology, will address the McGill Hillel Society on the "Development of Geology in Canada." This lecture is in conjunction with the current "Meet the Faculty" series being sponsored by the Hillel Foundation, of which the general theme is "Future World Trends." Each speaker in this series is dealing with that aspect of the general topic with which he is most familiar.

Dean O'Neill's college education started right here at McGill University where he received the degrees of B.Sc. and M.Sc. in Geology and Mineralogy. From here he went to Yale University, where he obtained his Ph.D. This was followed by one year of post doctorate work at the University of Wisconsin in structural and metamorphic geology.

The Dean has had wide experience in practical geological work which has taken him right across the Dominion, as well as having spent three years in the Arctic. He has been a member of the subcommittee on natural resources of the Reconstruction committee of the Dominion Government and is at present Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Arctic Institute of North America.

Miss A. Ross Gives Address

"Is the University an Ivory Tower?" will be the topic of an address to be given by Miss Alice Ross, of the Sociology department, at 1 p.m. this afternoon in the S.C.M. House, 3374 University street. This will be the second in a series of five talks to be given by various university professors, whose addresses will be based on the S.C.M. University Commission Report drawn up by students from Eighteen Canadian Universities.

Yesterday Prof. Robert Chipman spoke on the topic "Are Engineers and Scientists Immune to Religion?" Prof. Chipman stated that the alumni are one of the important factors affecting the policy and curriculum of the engineering faculty. These alumni, he said, who are employers in industry are not so much concerned with the cultural and religious aspects of the engineer's personality but with his technical ability. This plus the fact that engineers are compelled, because of the tremendous technological advances to become specialists in a narrow field results in little time and energy given to religious and cultural pursuits.

In the discussion period Prof. Chipman said that unofficial groups of professors and students could fulfill a valuable function by discussing industrial and scientific problems in relation to social and religious values.

CREST FOR LAVAL: Ian Ferrier, second-year architecture student, displays the McGill Shield which The McGill Daily is sending to the student association of Laval University. At the last Canadian University Press conference the Laval students requested each member paper to send their university crest, which will be mounted on the walls of the palatial student union at Laval. The shield was designed and made for The Daily by Ian.

Committee Announced In Combined Canvass

The names of the committee that will handle the combined charities appeal to be launched on the McGill campus on March 7 were announced yesterday. The committee this year is composed almost exclusively of coeds, and chief executives are Judy Taylor, a third year science student, chairman; Sue Bishop and Janet Ambridge, publicity; and Betty Ann-McNicoll, treasurer. The 22-member committee will canvass the campus in a drive that will combine appeals by the Combined Charities, the International Student Service and the Canadian Red Cross.

Miss Taylor disclosed yesterday that in addition to the 22 women students, "a great many more" will help in canvassing. Fraternities, some faculties, University residences, campus clubs and societies (numbering over 100), in addition to setting up booths in the main buildings on the campus. The students will be given a chance, when they contribute, to divide their subscription into as many parts as they wish, and contribute to each of the three appeals the amount of their choice.

Proceeds from the International Student Service section will be donated towards the national I.S.S. campaign now being conducted in other colleges throughout the country. Although I.S.S. is an international student relief service, the McGill branch is headed by Harry D. Miller, is run as an independent group. Recently it conducted a campus drive in conjunction with the Dominion-wide March of the Books campaign and collected hundreds of volumes that are now being sorted out at the University of Montreal headquarters previous to being sent to needy European students.

English Department Obtains New Building

A stable and a garage behind the building that is now the Faculty Club and was at one time the Principal's residence has been converted into a dramatic production workshop to provide additional facilities for the training of young dramatists and producers at McGill University, it was announced over the weekend.

Elmer Hall, assistant professor of English in charge of dramatic productions, said that the additional space, in addition to releasing five two-hour periods each week (during which scenery was constructed and painted), will make possible the professional practice of constructing and painting scenery, and its transportation to the locale of a play, as in the case of road companies.

Committee Announced

One of the main activities of I.S.S. is connected with research and publications. The outbreak of the second war again brought to the fore the relief aim, with early war work being done among student refugees and prisoners of war. The Canadian branch of I.S.S., since 1940, has collected over $125,000 for student relief. Co-operating committees and corresponding members are found in 19 European, and nine Far Eastern countries, as well as in Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Canada and the United States. A total of 40 countries throughout the world are participating in the I.S.S. relief work. The organization is built on a non-political, non-religious basis.

Future plans of the I.S.S. of Canada include scholarships for D.P. themselves in Canada after their studies, with a chance to establish studies if they so choose; scholarships for other European students; relief for students in France, Greece and India; and other year-round plans such as formerly carried out.

McGill NFCUS Seeks People to Aid Plans

McGill NFCUS requires men and women who are interested in advancing the work of this committee. At present, many projects are underway which need more hands and heads to help in their development. These include reduced rates for students on Trans-Canada Airline trips to Europe, a Quebec Seminar, International Student Exchange, as well as student exchanges in Canada. Students who wish to undertake work on these plans should contact Gilles Trahan, Chairman of McGill NFCUS, in the Union NFCUS room.

Smoker in Ballroom Tonite Chairman Miller Announces

The Arts and Science Smoker gets under way at eight o'clock tonight in the Union Ballroom. Harry Miller, Chairman of the A & S Social Committee, announced last night.

This is the first time in over four years that the A & S Society has sponsored such an affair. LAST REGULAR ISSUE
OF MCGILL DAILY MARCH 16

The Sport Circuit

By Bob Bornstein

Probably the most annoying thing about the sports page in a college newspaper to the average reader is the practice of prognostication by writers. Predicting the outcome of sporting events has become as much a part of the sports page as "Letters to the Editor" on the features page.

In this discussion it will be advisable to stay within the limits of college journals rather than to wander and include the "pros," meaning the well-known metropolitan publications.

After all, the predictions of sports writers who have pounded a typewriter for long periods, are based on experience and a thorough knowledge of sport in general and therefore are worthy of consideration by ardent sports fans.

Getting back to our subject — that of predicting sport in college newspapers, we find that it isn't so much the prediction that annoys the reader, it's the fact that the writer, when wrong, (and most of the time he is wrong), refuses to acknowledge that he isn't infallible by admitting in print that he made a mistake.

And then after prognosticating falsely on innumerable occasions, the writer finally picks one correctly (this is bound to happen because of the law of averages), he is overjoyed and proceeds to tell his readers about it in no uncertain terms.

Now being a college sports writer, it is our duty to defend the cause. The business of predicting is an extremely complicated proposition. There are countless facts to be taken into consideration — the spirit of the teams, injuries to key players, how various players perform in the particular arena or stadium where the game is to be played and many other seemingly unimportant details.

Climbing out on a limb, which is an expression used to denote predicting, is strictly a gamble. If you're right, you're an expert, but if you're wrong, well, you've stuck your neck out and deserve to suffer the consequences. On the whole, however, the business of prognostication is an interesting one and will most assuredly continue for a long time to come.

Nothing would be more appropriate at this point than to insert an item which appeared in the "Varsity," daily publication of the University of Toronto on Feb. 18, just prior to the final Western-Toronto basketball game. It should be noted that had Toronto won this contest, they probably would have forced a play-off for the title. Anyway, Western retained the crown by winning decisively, 62-52.

In this article, a Varsity sports writer, Ed Voight by name, although he dubs himself "Easy Ed" (obviously a fan of St. Louis University's "Easy Ed" MacCauley), crawls away out on the proverbial limb. What followed can be gathered with facility by reading the excerpt:

(The excerpt was written as a letter in a column known as "Speaking of Sport" and was intended, no doubt, to constitute a very original and optimistic advance on the game to be played that night.)

Open Letter to Johnny Metras—Dear John,

"Well, John old chap, just a note to prepare you for VW Day out in your London Arena tonight when Masterson's Blues take on your Mustang Cagers. "Maybe you are of the opinion that today, Friday, Feb. 18, won't be a VW Day (Victory over Western). Maybe then I should disillusion you then, John, maybe."

"Yes, John, I'm quite aware of the fact that your Mustangs beat our Blues 42-37 here in Hart House three weeks ago in the first Toronto - Western hoopla clash of '48-'49. But tonight's game is going to be a different story, John."

"For you see, John, our Blues realize that unless we win tonight, the basketball schedule is as good as over for us, even though we have a game with Queen's next week."

"So, John, we really have that old 'College Try' to get out and win—we want a cage playoff this winter, just like the rugby playoff last fall."

And John, there's something else. Before your game with us three weeks ago I picked the Blues to win by five points. Well, John, I had the correct margin in the scoring column, only I had the wrong team."

But for tonight, John, I'm going to make a slightly different prediction. After watching the Blues paste Queen's and McGill last weekend in Kingston and Montreal to nail down second place in the league, I'm calling Toronto to knock off your Mustangs by seven points—seven points—and right in London town, John."

Finally, John, whatever happened to the Mustangs last Saturday when Assumption Purple Raiders edged Western 71-58 in Windsor? My London spy informs me that Arnold and Scott weren't playing against the Raiders but they'll be back for tonight's "game of the year."

"That's fine John, because when our Blues beat you by those seven points tonight we want your Mustangs to be at full strength then there'll be no excuses or alibis."

"Well, John, that's all for now, but I'll be seeing you tonight, and, John, try to restrain yourself on your Western's playing bench, or else one of these days you'll blow your top completely."

"Till tonight then, I am Blue-fully yours, "Easy" Ed Voight.

"PS—Am bringing along a special Purple and White crying towel for you tonight, John."

Just in case you've forgotten, Western won 62-52 obviously making "Easy Ed" look very bad. But in his case he deserves sympathy more than anything else. No doubt he is a competent writer and knows the hoop game well. It just happened that he had great faith in his Blues, too much so in this case. He honestly felt that the Mustangs could be beaten and thought the Blues were geared for the occasion.

Voight was wrong — dead wrong. And the fact that he crawled away out on the limb proved his undoing. A certain Mr. Metras took out his trusty saw and cut the limb, causing "Easy Ed" to wind up in a very embarrassing position. Well, John, you've done it again!

Dawson Inter Cagers Lose to U of M

Braves Faced With Crucial Two Games

The McGill Braves have finally done it. By winning against the tough Dawson Dynamos a week ago Saturday after dropping 2, they assured themselves of coming on top if they win all their remaining games — and so defend their 1947-48 Intermediate Intercollegiate Championship. However, the next test is coming up fast as they play two games in as many days starting this Thursday, both contests to be held at the Verdun Auditorium.

If practice means anything, then the Braves will certainly come through as they are certainly prepping hard to avenge those early season defeats. The Verdun Auditorium and the McTavish Ice Palisade have been scenes of legal mayhem these past few days, with the boys going all out in preparation for the important tilt on Thursday and Friday with Macdonald and Sir George William's College respectively.

Coch Warren Chippendale in an interview with the Daily last night, reported satisfaction with the team's lines and made special mention of his rookie freshman forwards Leonard Kemp and Gene Robillard. Both are rated by the coach as sure fire prospects for next year's senior team.

The line of Red Quain, Arne Taylor, and Ed Murphy is going well while the efforts of Messrs. Constable Dudd and Bill Cave came in for praise. Backing up the goal getters are such able defencemen as O'Neill, Kimberly, of last year's championship team, Murphy and Knubley. The latter was just moved back from forward and the experiment has proven to be a great success.

The Braves really have to scalp the opposition now. Their two soft losses to Macdonald and Loyola could have been avoided even though the practices were few in number.

"Well, John, that's all for now, but I'll be seeing you tonight, and, John, try to restrain yourself on your Western's playing bench, or else one of these days you'll blow your top completely."

Red and Blue Five Beaten 45-43 on Last Minute Score

By BERT BERLIN

It was stark, tragic drama for the Dawson CIAU hoop squad last night when they were edged out by U. of M.'s inter cagers 45-43 in the dying seconds of the game on a story-book shot by Picard from the ten second line.

Les Carabins were fast in starting and led by their star American import Ray Grenier, racked up 5 points before Dawson's playing the twine on a set shot from the corner. Tall John Horn then put in another but the score was 20-4 before the Red and Blue started counting again. The halftime score however read 23-12 for U. of M.

The second half had the Orlick Emporium resounded thru the rafters as the Red and Blue led by Mucha and Armstrong started their uphill climb. The ball was coming from all corners of the floor and the Dawsonites were splitting the hemp consistently. With eight minutes to go the score stood tied at 32-32. From then on it was nip and tuck all the way. Only when the final horn was about to go did Picard make his dramatic move giving U. of M. the win 45-43.

The Carabins, although winning by only two points, had the better of the play. Best was Picard with 16 and Grenier with 13. They showed good ball-handling and authority under the basket. The Dawson sharpshooters were Armstrong with 13 and Chick Murray with 12.

This marked U. of M.'s seventh win in 10 starts putting them second in the league standing. McGill will be the visiting team this Thursday when the Red and Blue will make their third start still awaiting their first win in league competition.

Skiers Take Trophy

The McGill intermediate skiers retained their hold on the Ottawa Intercollegiate Ski Association trophy when they amassed 298.4 points out of a possible 300 in the three event field at Camp Fortune Saturday and Sunday. Ottawa University was second with 274.9, followed by Carleton with 274.0, Queens with 260.8 and St. Pats with 258.7.

The victory marked the fifth championship won by the McGill skiers in three years of active competition against the best in eastern Canada.

Guided by genial manager John Bonnett, the victorious team included Owen Owens, Baird Davis, Buzz Cockfield, Bruce Ramsay, John Fry and Walt Tilden.

Carleton College of Ottawa took an early lead when they won the downhill team contest held on the treacherous Kings mountain trail. icy conditions and a precipitous S turn combined to spill most of the contestants including Queen's Jack Durrell who landed suspended upside-down in the trees, but fortunately escaped injury. Redman Owen Owens won the event with the fast time of 1:13.4 in spite of a fall. Jean Bergeron of Carleton took second with John Fry of McGill in third spot. Other McGill men to finish were Walt Tilden 13th, Bruce Ramsay 14th, and Baird Davis 17th.

The Redmen completely dominated Sunday's events when they placed five men in the first seven in the slalom and took first two sports in the cross-country grind. The fast granular snow on the Camp Fortune slalom slope stood up well under the skis of the twenty racers of their two runs on the tricky twenty gate course. Bob Murray of St. Pat's took individual honours with 1:56.6 secs. for his two tries. McGill's Owens was a bare second behind while Fry, Davis, Ramsay and Tilden took 3rd, fourth, fifth and seventh spots respectively.

The cross country held in the afternoon was a severe test of all the competitors' skiing skill. Nearly eight miles in length, the course included three steep pitches known as the "Three Sisters" down which the racers scudded at lightning speed, fighting for balance on their tooth pick langlauf skis. Loose jointed Buzz Cockfield strode to victory in 56:32 minutes, a scant 4 seconds ahead of Red and White teammate Baird Davis, and a full three minutes in front of the third place runner, Potter of St. Pats. Tilden was sixth, Owen ninth, while John Fry, in his first experience on the racing boards, sweated out the distance in 70 minutes for 13th place.

Following the competitions, manager John Bonnett accepted the O.I.S.A. shield on behalf of the McGill team.

INTERCOLLEGIATE FLASH

The intercollegiate basketball team has been named . . . Coach Elaine Fildes released the names yesterday . . . Fourth year Phys. Ed. Dot Nichol is the captain of the team which will be making a bid for the intercollegiate title come this week-end. Co-captain of the team is second year Arts student Pat Wallace. These two gals are both playing on the team for their second year, and head the team's defensive strength along with Roberta Tyler. This will be the first year in which a total round robin among the big four . . . Toronto, Queen's, Western, and McGill is to be played. Last year Queen's took over the title from Toronto, who had taken it in 1947.

On the starting forward line will be two western newcomers, Pat Griffiths and Margaret Dix, who both hail from Saskatoon. Wendy Clough will be the third starter on the forward line . . . Wendy is a first year Phys. Ed., and only four Phys. Eds. can play on the team, so that she has really proven herself to make the line-up over her upper year sisters in Phys. Ed. The other forwards on the line-up are Louise Macfarlane, Margaret Racey and Molly Camp. Louise, president of the MWSAA, is a fourth year veteran of the team . . . Molly is the basketball club manager, and is on the team for her third year . . . Marg has starred in junior play for McGill throughout the season and is expected to show well in the intercollegiate competition as she has performed very well since her jump to the senior ranks.

The second defense line stars Alex Irwin, playing for the first time for McGill, previously having played with MBL. . . Gloria Victor and Mary MacMillan complete the guard lines.

Intercollegiate titles have been coming in all year to McGill co-eds . . . Archery, Swimming, and tennis, along with Toronto. McGill and Toronto tied for second place, being one point behind the leaders, Western. Now the Basketball team enters the fray . . . let's hope they come out on top too.

SCHUSS HO . . . Ankles and knees and just about anything that could go seem to have gone during the past weekend. Rogie Schutz and Cynthia Powell both fixed their ankles so that no matter how much they wanted to, they could not race on Friday. Two of the St. Lawrence girls were out of the running.

On the slalom on Friday afternoon . . . one had a knee ruined, while the other little gal had to come down to have stitches put in over her eye. That meant McGill only had a two man team running in the downhill, and St. Lawrence team two in the afternoon. The other teams, Toronto and Middlebury, both had their complete four men teams, the best three times in each to count. Lis Turner Bone joined the McGill team in the afternoon to flash through the flags.

Betty Sutherland took the downhill for the Middlebury team. Teammate Joan MacKlaier took third place while Ann Bushell placed second for McGill . . . Ann made very good time coming down the trail, but did a disappointing, although spectacular, sit-down finish . . . but its all in the game . . . and Ann really showed herself to be quite the little skier. In the slalom Joanne Hewson starred, while the Middlebury gals, Betty and Joan came in second and third. So at the end of the day when the combined results came out, Middlebury stood on top, Toronto was in second place, while the accident-riddled teams, St. Lawrence and McGill followed in third and fourth places.

Now maybe we can sneak in a word about our own RVC Ski House . . . All you have to do to go up is sign in the Phys. Ed. office . . . free ski instruction can be had too.

Van Wagner's Track Team To Compete in Legion Meet

McGill will be represented in the Canadian Legion Track Meet to be held at the Forum on Monday, March 7, by the largest team of recent years. Fifteen men have been entered in the meet by Coach Van Wagner.

These include the top Redmen on both the Senior and Intermediate Intercollegiate teams last year. Hugh Munroe, 1948 college century champion, Sandy Spence, top McGill short distance man and Gene Swanzy lead the carry-overs from the Senior team.

Coming from the Inters is Ken MacPherson, a runner from the west coast who did not get a chance to show his wares during the Fall season. Gilmour and Simmerman, winners of Intermediate Intercollegiate and top prospects for next years Senior Meet will show their wares on the hardwood.

Competing against World record holder. Harrison Dillard in the hurdle event will be Intermediate Ken Wagner and Bob Moffat member of last year's runner-up Senior Intercollegiate champions.

Also in the record-holding class is the high jump; McGill's Dave Blair and Tink Kyle will go against Canadian Champion Art Jackson. Blair finished second to Jackson at the Olympic trials here last July and broke the Canadian Intercollegiate High Jump at Toronto last fall.

MEETING OF THE STUDENTS' SOCIETY

5 p.m. — UNION BALLROOM

CLAUDE HOWARD

Pen Sketch

Before the war Claude E. Howard attended St. Patrick's College, Ottawa, and earned his B.Sc. degree there.

He served with the R.C.A.F. for three years during the war and came to McGill in 1946. He has completed his first two years work with high standing.

While at St. Pat's, Claude was active in various societies, and while in the Air Force he voluntarily accepted the duties of entertainment officer at a large station for a period of one year, a job which took up a great deal of his spare time, but which provided excellent experience.

This year Claude was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Civil Engineering Society, and in this capacity he has shown ability, willingness and keenness in organizing undergraduate activities. He is a student member of the Engineering Institute of Canada, and was one of a small group which conducted the very successful S.E.I.C. membership drive at McGill some months ago.

We feel that Claude Howard is the best qualified candidate for the Presidency of the Engineering Undergraduates Society for the following reasons:

- (1) His organizational experience and ability.
- (2) His keenness and willingness.
- (3) His popularity among his fellow students.
- (4) His high scholastic standing, which will permit him to devote the necessary time to E.U.S. matters.

Elections are with us again and with them comes the opportunity to serve my fellow Engineers. At this time I wish to express my sincere thanks to those who nominated me for the position of president of the Engineering Undergraduates Society. This office is one that carries great responsibilities.

I will continue the excellent program that has been carried out by the retiring executive and improvements will be made where necessary. For example a common room is an immediate objective.

Activities that will be carried on and expanded with great vigor will be in part:

- 1. Publications Board (notes and old exam papers).
- 2. Dawson Liaison Committee.
- 3. Film Society (more and finer films).
- 4. Debating Society.
- 5. Professional Committee (a very important phase).
- 6. Close co-operation with the Employment Service.
- 7. Book Service.

and many other of the same high calibre.

To our greatly respected brothers at "Dawson" may I say that we will always be at hand ready to assist to the fullest in all your undertakings.

Finally, I believe that each one of us should have the opportunity to participate at one time or another in extra-curricular activities and if elected I will give leadership in this direction to the best of my ability.

CLAUDE E. HOWARD.

KEN HAGUE

Pen Sketch

Since his arrival at McGill, Ken has been actively engaged in various undertakings that are of interest to engineers.

During his first year at Dawson he proved himself to be a skillful debater, winning the Bovey Shield, which is awarded annually to the best freshman debater. Since that time he has represented both Dawson and McGill in Intercollegiate debating, and has frequently helped out the Engineering cause in Inter-faculty debating.

In the course of the past year Ken has served as Secretary of the Phi Epsilon Alpha Society, as well as being Secretary on the retiring E.U.S. Executive. This latter position would be of great value to a future President, as it has given him the chance of helping the past administration, and of becoming familiar with the requirements of the engineers which must be met again next year.

It is because of his ability as a debater, combined with the valuable experience obtained while serving on the past E.U.S. Executive, that we feel that Ken would make a successful President for our Society.

Platform

The college year 1948-49 has seen an unprecedented amount of activity around the Engineering Building. The main task of the new executive will be to keep this activity functioning at the same high level during 1949-50.

There are, however, certain additions to last year's activities which I should like to make.

There is a need for more contact between the engineering student and the business world into which he will enter upon graduation. I propose to organize a series of lunch hour lectures, given by prominent businessmen, in order to meet this need to some extent.

The Engineering Undergraduate Society has not taken much interest in the sports activity of its members. This situation should be remedied, and a definite organization set up, under the chairmanship of the Athletics Manager, to promote and direct intramural and interfaculty competition.

The newly formed Publications Board, which supplied you with lecture notes and exam papers, must be continued and expanded where possible. If elected, I shall try to have a set of third year Structural Design notes prepared. Dawson College elects its own branch of the E.U.S. I will co-operate with it to the fullest extent to ensure that Dawson engineers get fair representation in all activities.

In my capacity of Secretary on the retiring executive, I am familiar with the work which the E.U.S. must accomplish to maintain the high degree of student activity in evidence this past year. This work, coupled with the establishment of those innovations which I have mentioned, I shall carry out to the best of my ability.

The international student body was founded immediately following the first World War, when a small group of university men and women met at Geneva, Switzerland, to found what was then called the European Student Relief. College communities in more fortunate countries then started organizing the collection of money, food, clothing and medical supplies for less fortunate confreres in Europe.

WORKSHOP RADIO EVENTS

The Ghost of Benjamin Sweet is the last play to be produced by Radio Workshop this year. Casting and first rehearsal, under the direction of Len Ashley will take place this evening (Tues. Feb. 22) at 8 p.m. in the studios of CKAC. This play requires ten individuals so there is ample opportunity for many people to qualify for Workshop awards.

The Radio Workshop executive wishes to announce that the closing party will be held in the Union on March 8. At this event the awards and pins will be given out to the various members. In a future edition of the Daily a list of the invited guests will appear.

Drama is again the keynote on this evening's McGill Show. (CJAD 10.05 a.m.) Excerpts from Thunder Rock, the Arena Wing's forthcoming production, will be featured on the program. This special production is under the joint direction of Conrad Shatner and Eugene Jousse.

CLUB HISPANICO

On Thursday night, Feb. 24, at 8 o'clock sharp, the Club Hispanico is holding a special Open Meeting for all interested in the Cafeteria of the McGill Union.

Senora Manolita del Vayo de Gallager of Colombia will speak on "Un Viaje en Colombia" (A Trip in Colombia), following which Sr. Armando Carles of Panama will show a Spanish film, "Esta es Panama."

Sra. de Gallager studied in France and has travelled extensively throughout Latin America. She is at present teaching Spanish at the Cercle Universitaire and the Ecole des Arts Graphiques. Sr. Armando Carles is the present Consul-General of Panama in Canada.

Refreshments, including the famous "cuba libre" will be served, for which purpose an admission of 25 cents will be collected at the door.

The Club is still taking reservations for the Spanish Ski Weekend at Huberdeau, which commences Friday afternoon, Feb. 25. The overall cost will be $11.00. Those interested should contact Miss Ann Robson at W1 1906.

PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY

Dr. B. B. Raginsky will speak on "Psychosomatic Medicine—A Modern Trend in Medicine" on Thursday, 24th February at 5.10 p.m. in lecture theatre No. 1 of the Chemistry Building. In previous years Dr. Raginsky's talks have aroused great interest on the campus, and a large audience of both members and non-members is expected.

The Pre-Med. Banquet and Election Meeting is to be held in the cafeteria of the Union on Monday, 28th February. The agenda will include: a juicy steak dinner, an address by Dr. Frederick Smith, and the election of officers for next year.

Tickets are now available from George in the Tuck Shop of the Union or from members of the Executive. As the number attending must be known in advance, tickets will NOT be sold after Thursday, 24th February. Tickets are also available at a special price, for Pre-Meds. who are not members.

PHYS EDS

On Thursday, February 24 another of the activities for the Undergraduate Society of Physical Education will take place in the Small Gym. The evening's entertainment will consist of music by a ten-piece Ukrainian band and dancing demonstrations by Ukrainian, Lithuanian and Latvian groups, who will wear their native costumes.

Members of the third year will demonstrate an American Square Dance, followed by an audience participation in some of the dances demonstrated. The program is slated to begin at 8 p.m. It is hoped that all members of the Faculty will attend.

MCGILL CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Rev. J. Edwin Orr, M.A., Th.D., D.Phil. (Oxford) will speak in Room 44 of the Arts Building on Tuesday, Feb. 22. Dr. Orr has written several books; he has travelled widely and has a particular appeal to students. During the war he was chaplain in the U.S. Air Force and saw seven Pacific campaigns. All are invited to take advantage of this opportunity to hear this well-known world traveller, scholar and author. There will be open forums on Wednesday and Thursday at 5 p.m. (in Student House), which Dr. Orr will lead.

long trump the hand would make. Both club possibilities work out to approximately a .6 chance of success. This of course was superior to the finesse.

Another and on percentage better line was to play for the 3-3 club break, or to play for the 4-2 break or worse on the basis that the opponent holding the long clubs also held the heart King, and would therefore be caught in a squeeze. This percentage comes to .7 approximately.

Fortunately for South he chose the first method by cashing the spade Ace and Queen, then the club Ace and King, followed by a small club ruffed in the South hand. Dummy was then re-entered with the trump King and the two losing hearts pitched on two good clubs. A note of caution to the uninitiated: No percentage play is guaranteed to win, but it is the winning line in the long run.

Placement Service

PERMANENT EMPLOYMENT
What kind of jobs do graduates obtain?

One of the most valuable functions the Placement Service can perform is to tell students of the main types of permanent work obtained by graduates. This information is all the more valuable when based on practical experience.

As one means of compiling such information each graduating student this year in Engineering and Commerce will be asked to complete a Report Form. (Eventually students in all faculties will be asked to complete these forms.)

These Report Forms have now been distributed by members of your class executive. When you receive the form, if you have already made definite plans for employment, you should enter the necessary information and return the form immediately to the Placement Service office. This applies even if you are not registered with the Placement Service.

100 per cent coverage of the graduating class is essential if the assembled information is to be effective. If you have not yet made definite commitments, keep the form and return it when the information is available. The information given on these forms is, of course, considered confidential.

It should be noted also that it may be to your direct advantage to provide this information, since these files may be consulted at a later date to fill outstanding jobs for which no candidates are available.

Company Visits
Note the following forthcoming visits: (See Notice Boards for details.)

- Northern Electric Company Limited.
- Ford Motor Company of Canada.
- Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company.
- London Life Insurance Company.
- Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada.
- Donacona Paper Company Limited.
- Canadian Pacific Railways.
- Hudson's Bay Company.
- St. Lawrence Alloys and Metals Limited.
- Noranda Copper and Brass Limited.

Summer Employment Registration

Some students are apparently still unaware of the fact that re-registration is required every year for summer employment. If you have not already done this for 1949, registration for summer employment is open from 2-5 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at the Placement Service office.

Nat. Employment Service Lists

Further N. E. S. lists for summer and permanent jobs have been sary to play down to Montreal audiences — a feeling that seems to be prevalent among imported professional artists. In the Beethoven and Frank quartets that followed the players either scraped or oozed the music out of their instruments.

The most disturbing of the performers is the first violinist. He has a nasty habit of playing out of tune whenever the spirit moves him and of trying to sound like a rather poor imitation of an Elman or a Hucerman. His playing made the quartet sound like the old Lener quartet at their worst.

May it be mentioned in passing that the programme notes were in even poorer taste than some reviews the Daily has printed. They were of no help to the informed reader and only frustrated the uninitiated.

In early days the "horse power", operated by teams of horses hitched to its arms and walking in a circle, supplied the power to operate the threshing machine and other farm machines. Today tractors and engines supply the power to operate most farm machines. Nickel Steel and Nickel Cast Iron are used for important parts of tractors and other farm machines to give extra strength, toughness and wear resistance, and to eliminate breakdowns.

Canadian Nickel sold Abroad brings in U.S. Dollars

Since more than ninety per cent of the Nickel produced in Canada is sold to the United States and other countries, it brings a constant flow of dollars back to Canada. In fact, Canada's Nickel industry is one of our chief sources of U.S. dollars so essential at the present time to maintain our foreign trade and make available products not produced in this country.

These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees, and help provide the dollars which make it possible to pay millions in freight to Canadian railways, to buy timber, steel, coal, machinery and supplies amounting to many millions each year. These millions, flowing into all industries through the length and breadth of Canada, help create jobs for Canadians.
